The Language Schools

HISTORY
The Middlebury College Language Schools were pioneers in the development of specialized study of Modern Languages in this country. The German School was founded in 1915, followed by the French and Spanish in 1916 and 1917. The Italian School was added in 1932, Russian in 1945, Chinese in 1966, and Japanese in 1970.

The Schools in Europe opened in 1949 with the first session of the School in France in cooperation with the University of Paris. This was followed in 1951 with a similar program in Madrid, after which the Schools in Mainz, Florence and Moscow were established in 1959, 1960 and 1977.

PHILOSOPHY
The Language Schools aim to give thorough training in the language and cultural heritage of the foreign country. Equal attention is given to all areas of instruction, from introductory courses to advanced seminars. Students are welcome to apply for a single summer at any level or as candidates for one of the degree programs to be completed over several summers in Vermont or at one of the Schools Abroad. For those who are currently teaching or who plan a career using foreign languages, the M.A. is conceived as a course of study in itself and not simply as the first half of a doctoral program. The D.M.L. (Doctor of Modern Languages) degree differs from the traditional Ph.D. in its emphasis on the combination of both scholarly and professional training at the college or university level.

COURSES OF STUDY AND DEGREE PROGRAMS
Courses are offered on the Vermont campus during the summer and at the Schools in France, Germany, Italy, the Soviet Union and Spain during the academic year.

Summer: The intensive program of language study in Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian and Spanish is offered at several levels. It is open to students who wish to improve or refresh their foreign language skills or to gain proficiency in a new language necessary for their professional career.

These and other courses are available also to non-degree candidates who wish to engage in continuing education or advanced training as part of their ongoing professional preparation. They may be used also for transfer to degree programs at other institutions.

The MASTER OF ARTS in French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish requires an approved program of twelve units/courses which can be earned over several summers on the Vermont campus or in a combination of study in Vermont and at one of the Middlebury Schools in Florence, Paris, Madrid, Mainz or Moscow. Specific degree and distribution requirements in each language are explained under individual course listings.
The DOCTOR OF MODERN LANGUAGES (D.M.L.) in French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish requires an additional twelve units beyond the M.A. These include the following: eight advanced graduate units/courses in the student's principal foreign language, two graduate units/courses in a second foreign language, an independent D.M.L. paper (one unit), comprehensive examinations in both languages, one year's residency abroad, proof of successful teaching experience, and a final thesis (one unit). All new applicants are required to complete the "summer of application" on the Vermont campus. This is made up of two of the required courses in the principal language plus the independent paper.

Abroad: The five Middlebury Schools are located in France (Paris), Germany (Mainz), Italy (Florence), the Soviet Union (Moscow) and Spain (Madrid).

The Junior Program offers credit towards the B.A. degree to be transferred to the student's home institution. In some cases, depending on individual qualifications, a preliminary summer at Middlebury may be required.

The Graduate Program is open to candidates for the M.A. or D.M.L. degrees who have already spent a successful summer on the Vermont campus and who wish to proceed to one of the Schools Abroad to continue and/or complete course requirements for their degree.

Further information on programs in all Schools (summer and academic year abroad) is included in individual sections of this Catalogue.

ADMISSION
Application to the Schools should be made early. Admission standards are high, but each application is considered individually and all students are placed according to their level of preparation. Acceptance decisions are made throughout the winter and spring months until full enrollment numbers are reached after which all successful applicants are placed on a waiting list. Admission is for one summer only. Students must reapply for any succeeding summer.

LANGUAGE SCHOOLS ADMINISTRATION
The central administration of the Language Schools oversees the operation of all programs — summer and academic year, on campus and abroad. It includes the following members:

Roger M. Peel, Director of the Language Schools and Vice President for Foreign Languages
Gloria V. Vaglio, Assistant to the Director and Dean, Italian School
Marjorie C. Grant, Officer for Budgets and Financial Aid
Marilyn L. Ewell, Administrative Assistant for Admissions and Secretary to Director
Carol A. Sampson, Administrative Assistant for Admissions: Secretary

The individual on-campus Schools are administrated by a Director and Dean. As senior members of each School the Director is responsible for all matters dealing with curriculum and the appointment of faculty members. The Dean supervises the year-round operation of the office and handles admissions, registration, academic records and files.

Each of the Schools Abroad has a resident Director appointed by Middlebury College to assist students with all aspects of their formal studies and to help them settle in the foreign community.
The Summer Program
The Summer Program

Language Pledge: More than sixty years of experience have proven the effectiveness of the Middlebury insistence on using the foreign language both in and out of the classroom. All students are required to sign a formal statement agreeing to use the foreign language as the only medium of communication during the entire session. A modified language pledge is required even of students in the beginning courses.

Life in the Schools: Middlebury's country setting is ideal for summer study. Students live on campus in the dormitories assigned to each School and they take their meals with the faculty and staff of their School. Extracurricular activities include films, concerts, lectures, singing groups, picnics, and various sports such as tennis, swimming, golf, volleyball, and soccer. There are attractive opportunities for hiking in the nearby Green Mountains and for bicycling along the quiet roads of the Champlain Valley.

All students are expected to enroll for the full session and to carry a full academic load. Only under special circumstances will permission be granted for living off-campus or for auditing. The College does not have space for housing members of a student's family, nor can special diets be provided.

Faculty: The Faculty is made up of experienced professors of Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, and Spanish. All are specialists in their field and many come to Middlebury from abroad, thus ensuring in each School the stimulus of fresh contacts with the foreign language and culture.

Curriculum: The lower curriculum is divided into levels (100, 200, 300, 400), each of which is a full-time program. Students may enroll for credit in only one level at a time. Placement is determined by testing and according to previous study of the language.

The graduate curriculum (500-900) is made up of a large number of individual courses in linguistics, literature, the social sciences, art history and foreign language pedagogy. A normal load for each student is three courses per summer, to be selected in consultation with the Director or Dean. First-year students are placed in courses most appropriate to their linguistic proficiency at the time of registration. Some students may be required to take one or more courses at the lower level before beginning a full load of graduate work.

Dates and Fees: All Schools are in session during June, July and August for periods ranging from six to nine weeks. Fees for tuition, room and board vary according to the length of the session. Complete information on Dates and Fees is included on pages 59 and 62 of this Catalogue.

Credits: Courses in the six- and seven-week sessions in French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish award three credits per course. Courses in the nine-week session in Chinese, Japanese and Russian award five credits per course.

The 1980 session: Planning for each session of the Language Schools begins many months in advance in order to provide students with as much information as possible on the following year's faculty and courses. Sometimes it is necessary to make late changes if unforeseen problems occur. However, full details are included in the registration materials of each School sent to all accepted students in the spring.
Students wishing to take courses numbered 100-499 should read the descriptions carefully before completing the application form. Graduate students will be provided with similar descriptions in the Registration Bulletins to be published in the Spring of 1980.

Seven and nine-week courses are identified in the course listings in this catalogue as follows: † seven weeks, ‡ nine weeks. The six-week sessions are uncoded. Courses in brackets [ ] are part of the standard graduate curriculum but will not be offered in 1980. Lower level courses are numbered 100-499. Graduate courses are numbered 500-999.

CS 101-102  Beginning Chinese‡  Pusey
An intensive introduction to Mandarin, this course begins with a four-day concentrated study of Mandarin phonetics and the Gwoyeu Romatzyh tonal-spelling system of romanization. Chinese characters are also introduced in the first week, along with simple vocabulary items for daily use. Thereafter, for the next six and a half weeks, students concentrate on the first ten lessons of the Mandarin Primer, liberally supplemented with sentence pattern drills and exercises prepared at Middlebury. A complete series of audio tapes, including vocabulary and pattern drills, prepared at Middlebury and Harvard, accompanies each lesson. In addition to the audio tapes, videotapes of these first ten lessons, prepared at Middlebury with the faculty as actors, will be used. The video image is extremely effective in helping the student to internalize the new language patterns. For the last week and a half, Elementary Chinese (Peking, 1972) is used to introduce simplified characters and the Pinyin system of romanization. Other romanization systems will also be briefly presented.

CS 201-202  Intermediate Chinese‡  Ch'en
While continuing the audio-lingual approach, this course also emphasizes the reading of Chinese character texts (both standard and simplified characters). The course will be divided into two parts. The first half will concentrate on consolidating the foundations which the students have begun to build in their first year courses (i.e., pronunciation, grammar, character writing) and further work on sentence structure and vocabulary. This will be done through a study of selections from three texts: Modern Chinese Readers (I and II), Chinese Reader (I and II) and Tarn Butyng. The second half of the course will use no textbook. Instead, the student will shift to reading real Chinese in the form of modern essays, short stories and newspaper articles. A Chinese movie on videotape will also be used, in conjunction with its study-manual containing the screenplay, vocabulary and other supplementary materials. In addition to viewing the movie, students will study the screenplay as a text. The course will be conducted primarily in Chinese and is open to students who have completed first-year Chinese. We realize that students come from a variety of programs with differing emphases, with the result that students may be more proficient in one aspect of language learning, for instance speaking, and less in others, such as writing. An effort will be made in the first half of the course to bring the students to a common standard by dividing the class into sections according to special need. By the end of the course students will be able to speak with some fluency on conversational topics, to write short compositions and to read newspapers and articles by modern authors with the aid of a dictionary.

Assignments include: translations, composition, sentence exercises and the use of Chinese to explain the meanings of idioms and phrases. Daily work outside of class, including time spent in the language laboratory, requires approximately five hours.

CS 301-302  Advanced Chinese (Modern Chinese)‡  Chiang
This course aims at further development of overall language proficiency through extensive reading of modern texts selected from a wide range of styles and genres. Readings include: 1) essays on academic subjects; 2) modern vernacular literature: essays, short stories, and plays as well as the screenplay of a Chinese movie which will then be viewed on videotape; 3) contemporary materials: political writings from the People's Republic of China and from newspapers. Classes are conducted entirely in Chinese. Individual laboratory exercises are required daily.

In addition to the 15 class hours weekly, students are also occupied approximately five hours daily with vocabulary review, sentence patterns and translation, preparation of class materials, listening to lesson tapes, recorded dictation exercises, individual meetings with teachers, preparing for quizzes, and composition writing.

CS 401-402 Classical Chinese‡ T'ang

An introduction to classical Chinese, this course is open to students who have no previous training in classical Chinese but who have completed a minimum of two years of modern Chinese. The course is conducted in Chinese. While the prime emphasis of the course is training in the reading of classical Chinese, the method of instruction seeks simultaneously to maintain the students' proficiency in modern Chinese. Laboratory tapes accompany all the lessons as an aid to assimilation of the texts.

Assignments include: 1) translation from classical into modern Chinese, and vice versa; 2) grammatical practice (usage to particles and analysis of sentence structure); 3) written exercises in both classical and modern Chinese.

CS 501-502 Readings in Chinese Culture‡ Chang

The course will be divided into units of two or three weeks in length, each focusing on a broad topic or a particular period of history; periods and topics in history, literature, and the social sciences will be selected to meet students' interests and needs.

Designed for advanced graduate and undergraduate students with at least three or more years of Chinese and preferably with an elementary knowledge of classical Chinese, the course will be conducted exclusively in Chinese. As the course is still essentially a language course, emphasis will be placed upon bringing students' writing, speaking, and reading skills to a high level. Particular emphasis on the development of writing ability will be achieved through completion of weekly essays which will be corrected and explicated in individual diagnostic sessions.

Life in the School: Apart from the formal work of the school, there are opportunities for students to become introduced to a number of facets of Chinese culture. There are films, both from Taiwan and the People's Republic, guest lectures — both in Chinese and English — and demonstrations of Chinese music. In the past, students have used their spare time to study calligraphy, Chinese cooking, Chinese music, and t'ai-chi ch'uan. One of the high points of the session has been "China Night," when students both write and produce Chinese plays and skits, or take part in musical performances. There has been also an active participation in athletics, such as volleyball and tennis, as well as picnics and other outings. Such activities help greatly to ease the pressures of a long, intensive session, and over the years have become an important part of the life of the School.

Program of Studies

FR 101-102 Beginning French†
An introduction to the phonetic, syntactic and semantic system of the French language as a means toward elementary oral and written communication in a French-speaking community. Class activities are grouped in three disciplines: grammar, oral practice and writing composition, although these activities should not be considered as necessarily sequential. Reading is introduced as soon as possible coupled with intensive use of the language laboratory. This course represents the first two semesters of French, normally for students who had no French.

FR 201-202 Early Intermediate French†
This course is intended for students who have previously studied some French, but whose preparation is especially in need of strengthening. Active and systematic review of grammatical structures and problems, with emphasis on all aspects of language proficiency. At the end of this course students should be able to read a contemporary text of moderate difficulty, and to express their opinions about it in phonetically accurate French and short critical papers. Specialized vocabulary needs (technical, philosophical, legal, etc.) cannot be satisfied, but individualized readings may be directed by the available staff in addition to normal required preparations. Depending on student preparation and performance, this course corresponds to the second or third semester of French.

FR 211-212 Intermediate French†
This course is intended for students whose study of first year French is recent and who wish to continue their study and perfect their skills. Active and systematic review of grammatical structures and problems, oral comprehension and production, and with greater emphasis on reading and writing. Depending on student preparation and performance, this course normally corresponds to the fourth or fifth semester of French.
FR 301-302 and FR 401-402  Advanced French†

At the advanced levels, students are assigned to sections and levels according to their performance on the placement test given at the beginning of the session. The program is organized by specific skills: Oral Comprehension and Production: Structures of French Vocabulary and Grammar; Written French.

FR 301-302 designates the fifth and sixth semester level, or third year of college French, according to individual competence. FR 401-402 corresponds to the sixth semester level, or end of the third year, in both language skills and content. At these levels, each skill involves at least one hour of class per day, plus outside work in the language laboratory or small drill and correction sections.

Students who perform particularly well on the placement test will be allowed to enroll in a course in one of the following areas:

FR 430  Introduction to Contemporary France†
FR 454  Impressionism and Symbolism in French Painting†
FR 491  Introduction to Textual Analysis†

Work in these courses is comprised of attendance at graduate lectures plus section work specially adapted to the student's level and competence in both French and the discipline involved.

Each summer since 1974, the French School has offered a two-week Stage, or workshop, in French civilization, designed to afford interested teachers the opportunity to become reacquainted with the field by updating their knowledge and exploring a number of political, economic, historic, and social questions in depth.

This year, as in 1979, the French School will offer both a Stage de Civilisation Française, “La France de 1980,” and a two-week pedagogical workshop, “La Jeunesse Française d’Aujourd’hui.”
The Stages are co-sponsored by the Services Culturels Français, and the animateurs in the past several years have included Yves Berger, author and literary editor at Grasset; Jean-Marie Domenach, former director of Esprit; Claude du Granrut, secretary general of the Comité du travail féminin, Ministère du Travail.; Louis Porcher, former director of CREDIF; and René Rémond, historian and president of the Université de Paris X — Nanterre.

The Stages take place during the six-week session, and are therefore subject to the total immersion conditions and French-only language pledge of the French School. All of the French School activities are open to participants in the workshops. Each stage offers three graduate credits.

The Stage de Civilisation Française, “La France de 1980,” is from July 6 to July 18, 1980; the Stage de Pédagogie, “La Jeunesse Française d’Aujourd’hui,” is from July 20 to August 1, 1980. The fees for each are as follows: tuition, $240; room, $55; board, $115. For further information, contact the French School.

Curriculum and Degree Requirements: M.A. candidates must demonstrate proficiency, either through designated course work or by testing, in phonetics and composition. They must also take at least one course in language analysis, two in civilization, and three in literature. Courses in professional preparation are strongly recommended for anyone already teaching or planning to teach, and are required of students planning to request a recommendation for teaching.

All new graduate students will take placement tests on arrival: one in written French (grammar/composition) and one in phonetics. The results of the tests will determine which courses the students should elect for credit. In order for a student to be exempted in any of these areas, he or she must have attained the level of FR 502 (Patterns of Conversational French), FR 504 (Pronunciation of Contemporary French); FR 511 (Applied Grammar) and FR 611 (Composition).

Life in the School: The French School prides itself on offering not only a full academic program, but an intensive extra-curricular one as well. A theater atelier has always been a special feature of the School: both students and professors are given the opportunity to act in or design sets for classical, modern, and light theater pieces. The French film series gives everyone an opportunity to see the latest in cinema, and to strengthen aural comprehension. Evening lectures and concerts provide opportunities to become acquainted with other aspects of French culture. The dining room serves as a place where one can engage in relaxed conversation in French.

Amicale de Middlebury, an association of alumni, professors, students and friends of the French School, maintains the spirit of fellowship and comradeship among all those who have been associated with the School. Each summer there is an alumni weekend at which time former students and faculty are invited to Middlebury to participate in lectures, dinners, and the on-going activities of the session. Newsletters are sent periodically to keep alumni up to date on the activities of the French School.

Program of Studies

GN 101-102  Elementary German†  G. Schneider, Kenna and Staff
Daily activities normally include four hours of classroom instruction plus an hour of additional work in the language laboratory. The program consists of discussions, drills in grammar and phonetics, and laboratory. Drilling is done in groups of about ten students. Throughout the program audio-visual materials are used to introduce the students to selected aspects of German art and architecture, geography, history, and political life. Reading materials are introduced after the midterm, when students select one module from the three modules offered: Readings in Current Issues; Readings in Arts and Letters; and Tall Tales, Legends, and Folklore.

GN 201-202  Intermediate German†  G. Schneider, Richter and Staff
Daily activities normally include four hours of classroom instruction plus additional work in the language laboratory. In addition to the two areas of "Grammar" and "Composition and Conversation," students select two modules per each half of the term. Modules include: The Detective Story; The Fairy Tale; Grammar Review and Vocabulary Building; Grammar in a Literary Context; From Language to Literature; Selections from F. Dürrenmatt; Selections from H. Hesse; Selections from Thomas Mann; Perspectives on Modern Germany.

GN 301-302  Advanced German†  G. Schneider, Bubser and Staff
Daily activities normally include four hours of classroom instruction. All students are required to take the two basic courses: "Advanced Grammar and Vocabulary Building" and "Advanced Composition and Conversation." Beginning with the second week each student selects an additional two modules per each half of the term. Modules include: Crimes and Trials; Exercises in Phonetics and Orthography; Aspects of German Culture and Civilization; German Youth Today; Press Readings; Selections from Böll, Brecht, and Kafka; Selections from the German Novelle; Workshop in Grammar Review and Vocabulary Building.

GN 401-402  Advanced Upper Level German†  G. Schneider, Teschauer and Staff
Daily activities normally include four hours of classroom instruction. All students are required to take "Special Problems in Grammar and Syntax" and "Composition and Conversation." Beginning with the second week students design the remainder of the program according to their linguistic abilities and academic interests. They select two courses from among the following courses and participate in the corresponding six-week courses.

Workshop in Teaching Methods

In 1980 the German School will offer a Workshop in Teaching Methods, in conjunction with the Goethe Institute of Boston, to afford interested teachers of German an opportunity to study changes in the pedagogy of foreign languages. The aim of the Workshop is to promote teaching and learning proficiency. Emphasis will be placed on specific teaching techniques which are applicable to all courses and textbooks that have oral proficiency as the principal objective. Specific topics will include: stimulation of student interest and curiosity; lesson planning; self-evaluation; standards of accuracy, fluency and pronunciation and interpretation of students' mistakes; the appropriate use of teaching aids; presentation of new language items; questioning skills; grammatical explanations; promotion of creative uses of language; and student assessment. A small class of high school students will attend the Workshop each day, so that teaching techniques can be practiced in a real life situation.

The Workshop takes place during the six-week session, and is therefore subject to the total immersion conditions and German-only language pledge of the German School; all German School activities are open to participants in the Workshop.

The Workshop in Teaching Methods is from 30 June to 18 July, 1980. The fees are as follows: tuition, $360; room, $80; board, $175. Credits: 4.5 semester hours. For further information contact the German School.

Curriculum: The courses listed above are in two general categories. Courses numbered 100-699 are part of the Grundstudium and include the basic courses in language, literary analysis, civilization, and pedagogy. Courses in the range 700-899 are in the Aufbaustudium.

The German School uses five modes of instruction. Introductory courses require two papers of three to four pages written outside class, and two critical essays written in class. Courses require mid-term and final examinations and short oral reports. Proseminars require two papers of eight to ten pages, each, written outside class. Seminars require one long paper of at least twenty pages. Workshops require participation in a stage production in addition to classroom work.

Students normally take three courses, including at least one literature or civilization course. Advisors will assist students in selecting courses and designing programs of study. All new students must take the placement test before registering for courses and are placed into courses according to their proficiency. The School reserves the right to place students into non-credit remedial courses.

Degree Requirements: The following courses are required for the M.A. degree in the German School: GN 601 Advanced Language Practice; GN 610 Introduction to Literary Scholarships; GN 620 Phonology, either GN 621 Introduction to the Linguistics of German or GN 622 Diachronic Linguistics; one of the courses in area studies including Landeskunde, economics, history, or sociology; one of the following methods courses: GN 691 Methods of Teaching German as a Foreign Language; GN 693 Methods of Teaching Literature; GN 695 Methodology of Landeskunde; and one proseminar in literature.

Candidates may concentrate the remaining five courses in one or two areas: literature, linguistics or civilization. One of them must be a seminar, which may be taken as soon as the second summer, and preferably no later than the third. GN 610 Introduction to Literary Scholarship is a prerequisite for admission to a seminar. Students normally take a proseminar and a seminar, in that sequence.

With the Director's permission and the instructor's consent, a course of the 700 level may be taken as a seminar to fulfill the degree requirement.

With the Director's permission, GN 601 Advanced Language Practice may be waived on the basis of demonstrated proficiency to allow the student to take another course.
Of the twelve courses required for the M.A., nine courses (including the seminar) must be earned in residence. Up to three courses may be taken elsewhere and transferred toward the Middlebury degree. Candidates must obtain prior approval from the Director or the Dean.

Students planning to complete the M.A. through the School in Mainz must take GN 610 Introduction to Literary Scholarship, a proseminar or seminar, and a third course. It is strongly recommended that the third course be a survey course in literature, history, or philosophy.

Life in the School: Student and faculty participation in all activities creates the special atmosphere of the German School. The German language can be heard and spoken, practiced and learned, not only in the classroom, but also in the activities — sometimes organized, sometimes informal — outside class hours. Volleyball, soccer, tennis tournaments and individual sports as well as picnics and other social events provide variety and diversion.

The academic program of the German School is enriched by the film series and by various lectures. In connection with his course GN 755 The Weimar Republic: Literature and the Visual Arts, Professor Brauneck will direct a theater workshop. A production of Brecht's Trommeln in der Nacht (1922 version) is planned. During the early part of the summer Herbert and Eva Nelson will give a cabaret performance. In August, Helen and Howard Boatwright (Eastman School of Music, Rochester, NY) will appear in a recital with works by Mozart, Schubert and Brahms. In addition to recent successful film productions of Wenders, Fassbinder and Herzog, German films of the 1920s will be shown in conjunction with the course GN 755. There will also be informal singing and other musical activities. Students are encouraged to bring their musical instruments.

Financial Aid: As in the past, the German School hopes to be able to award scholarships made available by the Federal Republic of Germany for study during the summer program.

All students enrolled in the graduate program of the German School and planning to study with the Middlebury program in Mainz, are eligible to apply for graduate fellowships for academic year study in Mainz at the beginning of the summer session.

Each year one student is awarded the Middlebury-Mainz fellowship made available by the Johannes Gutenberg-Universität in Mainz. In addition, the German Academic Exchange Service (Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst — DAAD) offers two to four fellowships to participants in the Middlebury-Mainz program. Each fellowship provides a stipend for living expenses while the student is in Germany and is valued at approximately DM 6000. In addition, the DAAD fellowships cover travel expenses to and from Germany. In selecting the student to be awarded the Middlebury-Mainz fellowship and the students to be nominated for the DAAD fellowships, the graduate faculty considers primarily the candidates' performance in their courses in the German School. The recipient of the Middlebury-Mainz fellowship is announced in late July, and the DAAD informs candidates of its decision in late August.

For additional information on financial aid for the summer program and the school abroad, please refer to pages 60 and 63.

Program of Studies

IT 151-152  Elementary Italian†  Faustini, Magri
Designed to introduce the student to the Italian language and to provide a foundation in both spoken and written Italian. The approach to the language permits comprehensive coverage of the basic structures and vocabulary of contemporary Italian. Filmstrips and taped dialogues create a culturally authentic environment in the classroom and provide emphasis on pronunciation, intonation and aural comprehension. The exclusive use of Italian in dialogue situations and vocabulary building encourages the student to develop skills in a personalized context. Short reading selections are introduced from contemporary works and discussions based on these enlarge the student's view of Italian life and culture. The language laboratory and television facilities are important elements of the course.

IT 251-252  Intermediate Italian†  Boynton, R. Ascari
Review of the structure and vocabulary of contemporary Italian. Conversation, compositions, oral reports help to increase fluency and naturalness as well as prepare the groundwork for a more sophisticated use of the language in spoken and written contexts. Integral to the course will be instruction in phonetics and use of the language laboratory.

IT 301  Advanced Italian: Techniques of Self-Expression, Oral and Written†  Magri
At the advanced level the program is organized by specific skills: grammar and vocabulary, written and spoken Italian. There is extensive practice in the use of the language through compositions and exercises with special attention given to the more involved points of grammar as well as through oral work and careful analysis of phonetics. The aim of this course is to expand the student's knowledge of Italian vocabulary and grammar, to introduce the stylistics of the written language, and to perfect the ability of the student to express himself with emphasis on precision, variety and vocabulary acquisition.
IT 354  Modern Italian Writers: An Introduction to the Study of Italian Literature†  Centuori
Practice in the use of the language. Reading, analysis and discussion of short stories, poetic and theatrical works. Oral and written reports and periodic assignments in the language laboratory.

Curriculum and Degree Requirements: Candidates for the Master of Arts degree in Italian must fulfill the following distribution requirements: One language course at the 500 level, the Stylistics course, one linguistics course, four literature courses, two civilization courses, a methods course (for candidates seeking a Middlebury recommendation to teach).

At registration, graduate students consult with the Director to choose courses which can help most in improving control of the language and/or relate best to a comprehensive program of study, particularly if the student is a candidate for a Middlebury College advanced degree.

Life in the School: The life of the School is enriched by lectures, readings, social gatherings and choral singing. Each year in the fourth week of the session a student production of an Italian play is given in Wright Theater. Picnics, tennis, "bocce," volleyball, soccer, and hiking afford pleasant relaxation.

Grateful acknowledgement is made of the following scholarships, made available through the generosity of friends of the School:

The Luke and Anna Nolfi Scholarship.

The AMISA Scholarships, given by the Association of Italian School Alumni, in memory of Mary Borra, former student of the Italian School and Mariano Vadala, husband of an Italian School Alumna and friend of the Italian School.

Membership in the Association of Middlebury Italian School Alumni (AMISA) is open to students, alumni, faculty members and friends of the School. The aims of the Association are "to encourage and advance, culturally and materially, the Italian School," to keep its members informed of the School activities and students, and to maintain the spirit of cordiality which the members associate with the Italian School. The nominal yearly dues are used almost exclusively for scholarships. The Association has also made several gifts of books to Middlebury College through the Italian School. The School is extremely grateful to AMISA for the tangible proof it has so often given of its warm support for the Middlebury program of Italian studies.

In addition to its annual winter meeting the Association holds a summer reunion on the Middlebury campus, and encourages the scheduling of regional meetings by interested members. AMISA will hold its 30th annual summer meeting at Middlebury in July 11-13, 1980.

Program of Studies

JA 101-102  Elementary Japanese‡  Kamiyama

The course aims to teach the basic grammatical structure and vocabulary of modern colloquial Japanese (Tokyo dialect) through aural-oral drills and exercises. Sufficient written materials will be added by gradually introducing kana and kanji. Audio-visual materials will aid students in learning the language in a socio-cultural context, and encourage them in free conversation. Homework assignments consist of: 1) listening to and practice on tapes (of primary importance); 2) writing short sentences using kanji and kana based on grammatical points introduced in class, and 3) a total of four or five short compositions in order to improve basic language skills. Daily work outside the class requires an average of four to six hours.

Instruction is given in English at the beginning, but the medium will be shifted to Japanese as the course advances; the maximum use of Japanese is expected.

At the end of the session, students should have mastered the basic grammatical structure of modern colloquial Japanese, with an active vocabulary of approximately 1500 words, and a good command of kana and at least 200 kanji. They should be able to carry on basic daily conversation reasonably well, and should have a good grasp of the socio-cultural background of modern Japanese.

JA 201-202  Intermediate Japanese‡  Quackenbush

This course is designed to help students acquire a thorough mastery of modern Japanese (Tokyo dialect) through review and reinforcement of major grammatical items which appeared in introductory texts. It also seeks to give students a reasonable control of more advanced vocabulary through aural-oral drills, readings, and written exercises.

Although increasing emphasis will be placed on reading and writing, aural-oral practice will continue to constitute an integral part of the course, and almost all class work will be conducted in Japanese. The use of special audio and visual tapes in addition to regular lesson tapes at certain stages of the course will make it possible for students to learn how Japanese is used in various social and cultural contexts so that they themselves may be able to use the language in actual conversational situations.

Homework will be assigned on a regular basis giving the students further practice in speaking and hearing as well as in the reinforcement of vocabulary, kanji, and grammar. Daily work outside the class requires an average of four to six hours.

By the end of the summer program, students should have a good knowledge of modern Japanese grammar, improved fluency in daily conversation, skill in the use of basic reference materials, the ability to read and write approximately 859 kanji, and the ability to write short essays. Students will also be encouraged to do as much collateral reading as possible in English, in order to enhance their understanding of the cultural background of modern Japanese.
JA 301-302 Advanced Japanese†

The course aims to broaden students' reading ability and to advance students' skills in using more sophisticated vocabulary through oral discussion and composition. The readings for the course will cover topics in history, the social sciences, and literature. Students will be exposed to various styles of writing, from newspapers and novels to scholarly essays. Homework assignments will be aimed at 1) improving the students' command of grammar and vocabulary, and 2) developing translation techniques.

Additional aural-oral practice includes extensive use of Japanese radio and television programs on tape.

By the end of the session, students should be able to read modern Japanese materials with reasonable speed, to handle various reference materials with dexterity, and to read at least all tooyoo kanji (1850) and write approximately 1000. Students should become able to carry on daily conversation with relative ease. The course materials will also emphasize the importance of understanding the socio-cultural background and conditions of contemporary Japan.

JA 401-402 Advanced Readings and Seminar in Japanese Culture‡

This course is designed for advanced graduate and undergraduate students in Japanese. The prerequisite is at least three or more years of study of modern Japanese.

The course aims to teach detailed grammars and styles of major genres of speech and writings. Students will be required to read, listen and view very wide range of spoken and written materials. The typical materials used include panel discussions, public lectures, rakugo, narratives, novels, poems, social science and humanities readings, journalistic writings. The course also gives individualized instruction in which each student will select a material of his or her own choice and have an individual conference with the instructor for one half hour every other day. In order to improve the student's aural-oral skills, the course will make extensive use of Japanese radio and television programs.

The course will be conducted exclusively in Japanese. It will demand a high level of proficiency in all four language skills and aims toward improving them. New emphasis will be placed on the development of writing ability, the students are expected to write four or five long essays which will be corrected and explicated in individual diagnostic sessions. They will be expected to help students on lower levels of their study.

By the end of the session, students should have greater fluency in daily conversation and an increased ability to discuss academic subjects. Students will also be urged to do as much collateral reading as possible in Japanese newspapers and weekly magazines. Daily work outside the class requires an average of four to six hours.

Life in the School: The main concern of the Japanese School is to teach Japanese and to provide opportunities outside the classroom for the student to become better acquainted with certain features of Japanese culture. Thus the school calendar makes room for a schedule of Japanese films, lectures by visiting scholars, and such things as demonstrations of Japanese music, calligraphy, the tea ceremony, and ikebana. In addition, there are opportunities for informal participation in athletics, as well as picnics and other outings.

Program of Studies

RU 101-102  Beginning Russian‡  Beyer and Staff
This course develops all four skills (listening, speaking, reading and writing) as well as giving a firm foundation for understanding Russian word formation. At the end of the course students have an active vocabulary of about 1,000 words. Almost all major points of grammar are covered.

RU 201-202  Intermediate (Second-Year) Russian‡  A. Baker and Staff
This course contains a thorough review and expands the students' understanding of Russian grammar, stressing continued development of all four skills. Special attention is paid to unprefixed verbs of motion and to the reading of contemporary texts.

RU 301-302  Advanced Intermediate (Third-Year) Russian‡  Woronzoff and Staff
This course includes a thorough review of grammar and phonetics. It treats at some length some points that may have been presented only in a rudimentary way in intermediate Russian, such as verbal aspect and verbs of motion. The main emphasis is on contemporary conversational Russian. (8 semester hours. Students of this course may also take either RU311 or RU321 for 2 semester hours of credit. See descriptions below.)

RU 303  Intermediate Conversation  Staff
This course is for students who have a good command of basic grammar but who need to develop ease and assurance in oral self-expression and an active practical vocabulary.
RU 305  Practical Phonetics and Diction  Glass
This study of Russian phonetics stresses correct pronunciation and intonation.

RU 311  Masterpieces of Russian Literature  Staff
Reading in the original of selected works from Russian 19th century writers. Lectures, reading, discussions and compositions in Russian. (2 semester hours of credit.)

RU 321  Survey of Russian Cultural History  Davydov
Lectures and readings on Russian and Soviet cultural history and civilization. Discussion and compositions in Russian. (2 semester hours of credit)

RU 403  Advanced Conversation  Staff
This course is for students with good active control of grammar and with considerable fluency in Russian who need additional intensive oral practice and training in self-expression.

RU 405  Advanced Grammar and Syntax  Staff
Students who have a strong active control of the fundamentals of Russian grammar study some of the more complex points of grammar and syntax.

GRADUATE COURSES

RU 503  Advanced Oral Self-Expression  Visson

DM 903  Research Paper (D.M.L. applicants only)  Staff
Curriculum and Degree Requirements: Students enrolled in Beginning Russian (RU 101-102) and Intermediate Russian (RU201-202) take one intensive course which meets 4-5 hours per day and normally grants ten semester hours of credit. Students in Advanced Intermediate Russian (RU301-302) take one intensive course which meets from three to four hours per day and normally grants eight semester hours of credit. Students at this level may also choose to take RU 311 or RU 321 for an additional two hours of credit.

Students enrolled in the six-week session normally take three courses. Graduate students may, with the permission of the Director, take four courses after successfully completing one summer in the Russian School. (An extra course fee of $240 is charged for a fourth course in the six-week session.) A degree candidate may take less than a normal course load if fewer than three courses are needed to complete the degree requirements.

No student will be accepted for study in graduate-level courses until he or she has demonstrated satisfactory proficiency on tests of listening comprehension, speaking, reading and writing. These tests are administered during registration period.

M.A. candidates are required to take at least one seminar course on the Middlebury campus. Candidates for the M.A. degree will be required to attain satisfactory scores on tests of listening comprehension, speaking, reading and writing before the degree will be granted. These tests will be administered on Saturday at the end of the third full week of classes. Degree candidates who wish recommendations for teaching positions are required to take course RU 612, Advanced Phonetics, and course RU 591, Methods and Materials of Teaching Russian.

Life in the School: The School endeavors to make everything in the life of the student during his stay contribute as effectively and pleasantly as possible to furthering his mastery of the language. Similarity of aims fosters an esprit de corps, while constant association with instructors at the dining tables, in songs and games, on hikes and picnics, no less than in the classroom, brings intellectual stimulus and added opportunity for advanced language proficiency.

The School believes that extra-curricular activities play an important part in the Middlebury way of mastering languages, and students are expected to participate actively. Picnics, excursions, vecherinki with musical and dramatic entertainments, special lectures by faculty members and Russian films provide ample recreational activity. Evenings are regularly set aside for songs and for learning Russian folk dances. Students are encouraged to bring musical instruments and Russian or instrumental records suitable for dancing and informal vecherinki.

Applications: Students applying for admission to the Russian School are advised to apply as early as possible, since it may be necessary to close applications in April due to lack of space in the School.

Program of Studies

SP 101-102 Beginning Spanish†
A course for beginners who want to master the basic structures and vocabulary of Spanish. An ordered presentation based on two approaches — the underlying grammatical patterns of language, and language in its situation context — will focus on all four of the language skills: understanding the spoken word, speaking, reading, and writing.

SP 201-202 Intermediate Spanish†
For the student who wants to acquire a more thorough understanding of the fundamentals of Spanish. Equal emphasis will be placed on reading, writing, and speaking the language.

SP 319-320 Advanced Spanish†
A rigorous grammar, composition, and conversation course for students who need further intensive study of the structure of the Spanish language.

SP 470 (570) Women in Hispanic Literature†
A consideration of the artistic value and social meaning of selected novels by significant Spanish and Hispanic-American writers who portray the situation of women in particular times and places. Works of the twentieth century are emphasized.

In addition there will be a complementary series of short courses for students of Intermediate and Advanced Spanish on topics in Hispanic letters, language, and civilization. Included will be applied phonetics, a poetry and theater workshop, topics of Spanish and Latin-American civilization.

Workshop for Teachers: In the summer of 1980 the Spanish School hopes to offer a special Workshop for Teachers intended as an intensive two-week analysis on La España de 1980. It is expected to run from 23 July to 7 August, and to offer three graduate credits. The fees are: tuition, $240; room, $55; board, $115. For further information please contact the Spanish School.

Curriculum and Degree Requirements: The number of graduate courses is arranged to indicate level of difficulty. Advanced undergraduates and beginning graduate students not admitted to SP 501 are expected to choose courses at the 500 level only. Students admitted to SP 501 may not enroll simultaneously in higher-level language courses.

Courses at the 700 and 800 level are designed for D.M.L. and advanced M.A. candidates. First-year graduate students should normally choose their courses at the 500 and 600 levels.

Requirements for the M.A. degree are as follows:

1) Summer of admission: three courses, including SP 501, Advanced Spanish Language, and SP 560, Literary Analysis. Admission to or exemption from SP 501 is determined by a placement examination administered by mail. Students admitted to SP 501 will be placed in the most appropriate section at the time of registration. Students not admitted to SP 501 may be required to take one or more courses at the advanced undergraduate level before undertaking a full load of graduate work.

2) Upon successful completion of the first three graduate courses, a student is eligible for admission to official candidacy for the M.A. In exceptional cases, at the discretion of the Spanish School, a student may be required to take a special oral examination to determine if he or she is to be admitted to candidacy.

3) All candidates for the M.A. degree are required to take the following courses: three language courses, one Literary Analysis course, three literature courses, one Spanish civilization and culture course, one Latin American literature or civilization and culture course. The other courses may be elected. Candidates preparing for a teaching career are advised to take at least one course in the area of professional preparation. Students are advised individually as to the most appropriate course of study to be followed according to their proficiency, experience, and future professional expectations.

4) A firm command of spoken and written Spanish is a requirement for the Master's Degree.

Life in the School: The Spanish School provides students with an opportunity to immerse themselves in an intensive and productive program conducted totally in Spanish, enriching their classroom exposure to the language, culture, and literature with a stimulating variety of outside activities and events that involve the whole Spanish School community, faculty and students. The work is demanding, and all students have to take part with vigor and concentration, leaving distractions at home. We live the language at the dining tables, at picnics, parties, formal and informal singing groups (bring along your musical instruments), in hiking and swimming and generally enjoying — in Spanish — the many advantages of summer in Vermont. Films in Spanish, theatrical presentations in which everyone can participate, lectures by faculty members and guest speakers, planned and spontaneous discussions on current topics complete the cultural and intellectual life of the School.

Two of the scholarships offered in Spanish bear the names of distinguished friends of the School:

The Juan A. Centeno Scholarship: Professor Centeno was Director of the School from 1935-1948.

The Luke and Anna Nolfi Scholarship.
The Schools Abroad
The Schools Abroad

The Middlebury Schools in France, Germany, Italy, the Soviet Union and Spain are open to qualified graduate and undergraduate students. Each School is under the supervision of a resident Director appointed by the College to oversee all aspects of the program and to assist students in settling in the foreign city. Courses are taught by professors and distinguished critics and scholars either at the local universities or in special seminars organized for Middlebury College. It is expected that all students will maintain the spirit of the summer language pledge while they are abroad. The academic calendar varies slightly from country to country, but students should plan to leave for Europe in early September in order to be ready for the start of classes later in the month or in early October.

The Junior Program: Qualified juniors from Middlebury College and other institutions take advanced undergraduate courses to be counted towards the B.A. degree. Admission standards are high and preference is given to Middlebury College students for the limited number of available places, but other students are accepted whenever possible. Majors in foreign languages and other disciplines may apply, but it is expected that all will have already reached a level of language proficiency equal to the end of the fifth college semester. In some cases a preliminary summer at Middlebury may be required of juniors who need additional preparation before being allowed to register abroad. In Europe juniors benefit from both the privilege of studying the foreign language and culture in the country itself and also from the close association with the larger graduate programs in each city.

The Graduate Program: After spending the required preliminary summer on the Vermont campus, graduate students may continue their course of study for the M.A. degree in one of the Schools abroad. All are expected to carry a full academic load of courses in the areas of language, literature, and culture and civilization. D.M.L. candidates may elect to fulfill the required period of residency abroad by taking courses for credit in one of the Schools or by auditing classes in preparation for the general examinations. Graduation exercises are held on the Vermont campus in August.

SCHOOL IN FRANCE

Headquarters in Paris: The offices of the French School in France are located in Reid Hall, 4 rue de Chevreuse, 75006 (Tel: 320-70-57) in the Montparnasse district of Paris.

Faculty: Courses are taught by faculty members of the University of Paris X — Nanterre, other branches of the University of Paris, and various French Institutes.

Housing: While each student is responsible for securing his or her own living accommodation, the Middlebury office in Reid Hall maintains a list of student residences, rooms and other lodgings. Juniors should consult the French department during the spring, and graduate students during the summer session, about housing.

Applications: For reasons having to do with visa requirements, no applications for admission to the School in France can be accepted after May 15.

Program of Studies

The Junior Program: Juniors enroll for the full academic year in a program of studies designed both to complement courses taken at the home institution and to form a logical link between sophomore and senior years. The first five weeks beginning in early September constitute an intensive preliminary session of language work and an introduction to contemporary France. In October students begin courses from a wide range of disciplines, including art, economics, history, language, linguistics, literature, philosophy, political science, and sociology.

A special one-semester program beginning in January is also offered, consisting of a preliminary session in January followed by a course given at the Institut d'Etudes Politiques and by Middlebury courses available during the second semester. The one-semester program is normally open to a limited number of Middlebury College students for whom the full-year program would be academically unfeasible.

The Graduate Program: After successfully completing three courses (three units) at the summer session of the French School on the Vermont campus, candidates for the M.A. begin the academic year in France. During a special preliminary session offered by Middlebury in September and October and which is worth one unit of credit, students are enrolled in two seminars designed to prepare them for advanced university work and to introduce them to the methods and subject areas of the mémoire, a short thesis required of all candidates for the M.A.
During the academic year following the preliminary session, graduate students earn the remaining eight units toward the twelve required for the M.A. degree. In addition to the mémoire, which is worth two units, six units of course work are distributed in the areas of language, phonetics, literature, and culture and civilization, at the University of Paris X and the Institut d'Etudes Politiques. The Director will help students in the selection of courses and the satisfaction of requirements.

The program runs approximately from September 8th to June 15th.

SCHOOL IN GERMANY

Headquarters in Mainz: The Office of the School is located in Rheinstrasse 42, 65 Mainz (telephone 06131-20059), a fifteen minute bus ride from the university campus. The headquarters also serve as the Director's residence.

Faculty: All courses are taught by the faculty of the Johannes Gutenberg-Universität in Mainz where Middlebury students are enrolled for the full academic year from October to July.
Housing: Students are responsible for taking care of their own housing needs although the Director can sometimes provide useful tips. There is a special housing office on the university campus in Mainz. Information on university dormitories is available at the Office of the German School on the Vermont campus. Interested students should request application forms as early as possible (by April 15 at the latest).

Financial Aid: For a Middlebury Student who is an American citizen, the Johannes Gutenberg-Universität awards a fellowship of DM 5000 (subject to change, payable in ten monthly installments); applicants with pedagogical experience and some background in English are preferred, since there may be a limited teaching assignment.

In addition, during the course of the summer session, Middlebury designates two to four applicants for DAAD scholarships on a competitive basis according to scholastic ability and need. The living allowance amounts to DM 750 per month.

Additional information on financial aid is included on page 63.

Program of Studies

The Junior Program: Juniors may go abroad for one year or either semester and enroll in four or five courses in Mainz, which is the equivalent of one semester at Middlebury College. One course must be a literary seminar and one may be a specially designed course for foreign students at the University. The remaining courses can be in Fachbereich 13 (Germanistik and Vergleichende Literaturwissenschaft) or in related Fachbereiche if approved by the individual instructor and the Director. Middlebury accepts applications from undergraduates enrolled at other colleges and universities, but a preliminary summer at the Middlebury campus is required.

The Graduate Program: After successfully completing three courses at the summer session of the German School, M.A. candidates take at least ten courses in Germanistik (and Vergleichende Literaturwissenschaft, if desired) in Fachbereich 13 of the Johannes Gutenberg-Universität — five each semester of the total ten. Normally two courses per year may be in related areas, such as philosophy, history, art history, or music, if the language of instruction is German. With permission, two courses specially designed for foreign students may be counted toward the M.A. A student who passes fewer than four courses in either semester may be asked to withdraw.

A course in a German university is usually a series of lectures or seminars to guide German students in their study and preparation for a final comprehensive examination. The resulting flexibility presents both an opportunity and a danger that must be resolved in careful consultation with the Director. All major lecture courses are augmented by specially arranged Middlebury tutorials, and regular, active student participation is assumed. The tutor's evaluation of the student's performance in these is as important as the final oral examination in the course.
A special advantage of the Mainz program is the Sonderkurs, which is a seminar taught by a German professor for interested Middlebury students. The Sonderkurs gives Middlebury students the opportunity to work directly with the European professor. Past course topics have included: Goethes Faust, Deutsche Prosa nach 1945, Geschichte der Deutschen Lyrik. Several Sonderkurse are usually offered each semester.

The German university system does not use such terms as "course" or "credit." Middlebury College, in granting an American degree, must assign letter grade values to the student's work. The Director is responsible for evaluating the various parts of a student's program, and this decision is final.

Students are required to write papers in two seminars each semester. In all other seminars or lectures, final oral, or in some cases, written examinations are administered by the German instructors. After these examinations are evaluated by the respective instructors, the Middlebury Director converts the German grades to the American grading system.

Students who must find housing should arrive in Mainz by September 20, 1980, and should arrange for their own accommodations during this time. All other students should arrive by October 1, when the dormitories open and the Middlebury year officially begins. The first week in October consists of a required orientation period. Each student must have found suitable living quarters and have registered with the Ausländerpolizei before being allowed to register officially at the Johannes Gutenberg-Universität. Registration (Immatrikulation) in the Fall takes place on a previously announced morning between October 5 and 12.

The Wintersemester extends from about October 17 to February 15 with a ten-day Christmas recess. The Sommersemester usually begins about April 15 and ends about July 15. Students are enrolled for the entire academic year.

The Director will guide each student in the selection of courses, a preliminary listing of which will be available in Middlebury during the preceding summer. Lecture courses, proseminars and seminars on German language, literature, phonetics, Volkskunde and philology are the province of the Deutsches Institut, which is grouped with Seminar für Vergleichende Literaturwissenschaft in Fachbereich 13. Normally two courses in culture and civilization may be selected from the offerings of other Fachbereiche. A sample list of courses in Fachbereich 13 and related areas follows.

SCHOOL IN ITALY

Headquarters in Florence: The School is centrally located in the Palazzo Benivieni, Via delle Oche 3, just behind the Duomo and a few minutes' walk to the University. All classes are held there during the Fall Term (September and October) in addition to the other courses offered by Middlebury during the Academic Year (November-June).

Students are expected to keep in close touch with the School's office (telephone: 215-782) for help and guidance on academic matters, as well as for cultural, social and professional information.

Faculty: The courses in Italian Art History, Language, and Literature which make up the Fall Term curriculum, as well as the Language and Literature courses which are offered during the entire Academic Year, are taught by instructors engaged by Middlebury College, several of whom are regular faculty members at the University of Florence.

Housing: The College cannot provide housing for its students, but the Secretary in Florence maintains up-to-date lists of families and apartments where Middlebury students have lived in previous years. The Director and Secretary will do everything possible to help students settle in Florence before the opening of Fall Term classes.

Program of Studies

The Junior Program: Students who are accepted into the Junior Year Program have usually completed a level of language proficiency equal to the end of the fifth college semester of Italian. In some cases a preliminary summer at Middlebury may be required of juniors who need additional preparation before being allowed to register abroad. These students normally enroll in the summer 300 level preceding the year of study in Florence, in order to insure that their written and oral Italian is adequate for study at the University. In Florence all undergraduates take the courses that make up the Fall Term curriculum (Art, Language and Literature). They continue during the Academic Year with the ongoing courses in Language and Literature, and choose two electives among the regular course offerings of the University of Florence.

In addition to the full-year Junior Program, Middlebury offers a special Fall Semester Program from September through January. During this semester, students take the courses that make up the Fall Term during September and October. They then continue with ongoing courses in Language and Literature until the end of January, when final examinations take place. At that time semester juniors are also expected to hand in a special paper of about 15 pages written under the supervision of the Director or one of the regular Middlebury instructors. The one-semester program is open to a limited number of Middlebury College students and lends itself in particular to those involved in double majors and/or special areas of concentration.

At the end of the Fall Term, students take written and/or oral examinations in all courses.
The Graduate Program: Final acceptance into the Graduate Program in Italy normally depends on the satisfactory completion of a session of study at the Italian School. The year in Florence consists of two parts: the Fall Term program of courses organized by Middlebury College beginning in mid-September and lasting six weeks, and the Academic Year at the University of Florence from November to June. During the Fall Term all students are required to take Art, History and Stylistics. At the end of the Fall Term there will be written and/or oral examinations in each of these courses.

At the beginning of the Academic Year at the University of Florence, each student consults with the Director to choose a year-long program of study consisting of four courses. Two of these are normally offered by Middlebury in Literature and Stylistics, and the other two are chosen from courses given at the University. No more than two courses may be taken in the area of literature during the Academic Year.

A course in an Italian university is normally a series of lectures or seminars to guide Italian students in their study and preparation for a final comprehensive examination. A typical university course is made up of three parts: 1) a corso monografico given by the professore; 2) a seminario on a different topic conducted by one or two assistenti; and 3) a parte generale which entails independent preparation by the student of critical readings, texts, etc. assigned by the professore. Students are therefore reminded that university lessons alone do not provide the whole body of information on which they will be examined.

A wide variety of courses is available each year at the University of Florence. Within each subject area, anywhere from two to eight different courses are usually given. Courses regularly offered at the University include the following subjects:

Letteratura Italiana
Letteratura Italiana Moderna e Contemporanea
Letterature Moderne Comparate
Filologia Italiana
Filologia Romanza
Filologia Dantesca
Linguistica
Glottologia
Storia della Lingua Italiana
Dialettologia
Storia dell'Arte
Storia Medievale
Storia Moderna
Storia Contemporanea
Storia del Risorgimento
Storia della Musica
Storia dello Spettacolo
Geografia

Students with special interest and qualifications may, with permission, enroll in one course in a field other than those listed above.
SCHOOL IN THE SOVIET UNION

Faculty: Instruction will be conducted by faculty members of the Pushkin Russian Language Institute.

Housing: Housing will be in double and triple rooms in the new dormitory of the Pushkin Russian Language Institute.

Program of Studies

All students who are not Middlebury College undergraduates will be required to have completed at least Advanced Intermediate Russian (Third Year) in the summer Russian School on the Vermont Campus before acceptance for the program in Moscow will be considered final. This acceptance will depend on the prospective participant having demonstrated acceptable performance in the third-year course (or higher). Credit will be granted at the advanced undergraduate or graduate level toward the Middlebury B.A. and M.A. or for transfer to another institution.

Instruction will be given in groups of 7-10 students and will include phonetics, intonation, grammar and stylistics, and lectures on contemporary Russian and its norms, Russian and Soviet literature, and Soviet society. Twenty-five hours of instruction per week.

Middlebury College reserves the right to withdraw from the program at any time any student who fails to perform at an acceptable level or whose presence in the program might prove to be detrimental in any way.

Total expenses for the semester are expected to be approximately $3,700. This includes tuition, books, room, board in student dining halls, and round trip transportation between New York and Moscow. Expenses will be higher for students who are ineligible for youth fares.

Students interested in applying should request an application for the Russian School. When returning the application, mark the appropriate space to indicate an interest in the program in Moscow. Upon acceptance in the School you will be sent additional information concerning the program in Moscow if it appears that you are eligible.
SCHOOL IN SPAIN

Headquarters in Madrid: The office of the Director and all classrooms are located at the Instituto Internacional, Miguel Angel 8 (telephone: 419-81.88).

Faculty: All courses are organized especially by Middlebury College for its own students. They are taught by professors from the University of Madrid and by other distinguished authorities in the fields of letters, history and the arts.

Housing: The college cannot provide housing for its students, but the Secretary in Madrid maintains up-to-date lists of families and apartments where Middlebury students have lived in previous years. The Director and the Secretary will do everything possible to help students settle in Madrid before the opening of classes.

Program of Studies

The Junior Program: Qualified undergraduates may enroll for the fall or spring semester or for the full academic year. The program of studies is made up of eight courses as follows:

FIRST SEMESTER: Undergraduates must take a language course:
Lengua avanzada
In addition to the required language course, students select three other offerings from a list prepared specifically for undergraduates. The following is a representative fall curriculum:
Fonética
Teatro español del siglo XX
El folklore español
Fondo historico de España
Poesía española moderna

SECOND SEMESTER: Those undergraduates who began their studies in Madrid during the First Semester must take:
Composición y estilística
Trabajos dirigidos
In addition they select two courses, after consultation with the Director, from a list similar to the following:
Historia de la música española
Velázquez, Goya y Picasso
Política española contemporánea
Español coloquial
Sintaxis comparada española-inglesa
Those undergraduates who begin their studies in Madrid during the Second Semester take a program similar to the following:
Lengua avanzada
Teatro español moderno
Temas de civilización
Historia de la música española
In special cases and with permission from the Director, an unusually advanced Junior may be allowed to take a graduate course which is not normally open to Juniors.

During the first week of each semester all new undergraduates are expected to participate in an orientation program designed to introduce them quickly to life in the Spanish capital and the surrounding area. Visits are arranged to various points of interest in Madrid, and weekend excursions to other parts of Spain are planned for both Undergraduate and Graduate students during the academic year.

The Graduate Program: During the required preliminary summer in Middlebury, graduate students normally take three courses. Advanced Spanish Language and Literary Analysis are required and are usually taken at this time with one other elective course. It is strongly advised that the students use this elective course to fulfill the Latin American civilization requirement. In Madrid, the students follow a balanced program of four courses one semester, including the required Graduate Seminar on Literature, and five courses the other. The choice depends on academic performance at Middlebury and upon previous studies, needs and interests. Some students, upon authorization of the Director, may write a long paper under the supervision of a faculty adviser. This paper is the equivalent of two courses (units).

Students will not be allowed to register for the School in Spain if their conduct or academic performance during the summer is judged unsatisfactory.

Courses for the fall semester begin in mid-September and end with final examinations in late December. After the Christmas vacation the spring semester opens approximately in the second week of January and continues until late May. The resident Director is available to advise students at all times throughout the year, beginning with a series of orientation meetings on the Vermont campus during the summer when questions of registration, transportation, housing and excursions in Spain are discussed at length.

The program of studies varies slightly from year to year, but the following list is representative of the usual courses:

SUMMER

Application: Application materials may be obtained by writing to Language Schools Admissions, Sunderland Language Center, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753. Admission is granted on the basis of academic qualifications and the availability of space. There is no general deadline, but students requesting financial aid are advised to apply as early as possible. Completed application materials and the requested financial statement must be received before 15 March 1980 to be considered for the first awards announced on 15 April. Applications will be processed until the start of the sessions in June provided that space and funds are available. A non-refundable fee of $15 must accompany each NEW student's application.

Credits: Courses in the six- and seven-week sessions in French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish award three credits per course. Courses in the nine-week session in Chinese, Japanese and Russian award five credits per course. A qualified undergraduate may accumulate a maximum of six graduate units toward a Middlebury M.A. before receipt of the B.A., or equivalent, and acceptance as a degree candidate.

Transfer credit: After successful completion of one summer at Middlebury, candidates for the M.A. and D.M.L. degrees may request permission of the Director or Dean to transfer up to three units from another institution. All such units/courses must be taken at the graduate level of an accredited college or university offering graduate credit towards an advanced degree. They should normally be taught in the foreign language in the areas of language and linguistics, culture and civilization, literature, and professional preparation.

All credits and units expire after ten years.

Application fee: A non-refundable fee of $15 must accompany each NEW student's application.

Enrollment deposit: Upon acceptance all students are required to pay a $50 enrollment deposit to be applied to the tuition charge. This deposit will be refunded provided that the student notifies the School in writing before May 1 of his intention not to attend.

Summer Session fees:

- Six Week Session
  - Tuition $715, Room $165, Board $345
- Seven Week Session
  - Tuition $715, Room $180, Board $385
- Nine Week Session
  - Tuition $990, Room $230, Board $495

Extra Course fee: The tuition fee allows students to enroll in up to three full courses in the six-week session or in one level of the seven- or nine-week sessions. Students receiving permission to take an extra course for credit must pay an extra course fee of $240 (one unit) or an extra half-course fee of $120 (one-half unit).

Auditing: Regularly enrolled full-time students may audit additional courses without charge if sufficient space is available.

- Auditing privileges may be granted to other students under the following conditions:
  - Permission of the appropriate school director is required.
  - Final decision on the acceptance of the auditors will not be made until after the completion of the formal registration of full-time students in June.
  - The charges are: Tuition, $90 per week; Board, $65 per week; Room, $45 per week.

- Regularly enrolled students may not change their status to that of auditor without permission of the director of the school and never after the third week of the session.

Method of Payment: Statements are mailed in late May and must be paid in full before Registration at the start of each session. Checks should be made payable to Middlebury College and must be in U.S. funds.

Refunds: Students who withdraw for medical reasons or serious emergencies shall forfeit the enrollment deposit but may receive refunds for any additional amounts paid as follows:

- Six and Seven Week Sessions:
  - Before classes begin: Forfeit of $50 deposit only
  - Before end of first week of classes: 60% refund of tuition plus pro-rated board
  - Before end of second week of classes: 20% refund of tuition plus pro-rated board
  - After end of second week of classes: Pro-rated refund of board only
Nine Week Session:
Before classes begin  Forfeit of $50 deposit only
Before end of first week of classes  60% refund of tuition
plus pro-rated board
Before end of second week of classes  40% refund of tuition
plus pro-rated board
Before end of third week of classes  20% refund of tuition
plus pro-rated board
After end of third week of classes  Pro-rated refund of board only

Applications for refund should be submitted to the Director of each School and to the extent granted will be remitted by check from the Comptroller to the person who paid the charges to which the refund is applicable.

To the extent any refund authorized represents in whole or in part the proceeds of a Guaranteed Student Loan, remittance will be made first by the College to the lender or holder of the loan of all or any portion of the refund. In this event the student will be given written notice of such disbursement made on his behalf out of the proceeds of the refund.

Veterans Administration (VA) Program: Students eligible for benefits under the Veteran's Readjustment Benefits Act may obtain an application for a Program of Education from their regional VA office. On the basis of the information given on the application, the VA will issue a Certificate of Eligibility which must be presented at the time of registration at Middlebury.

If the student is presently attending another institution he should complete a form requesting a change of place of training. A student who has previously attended Middlebury with veteran's benefits need only reactivate his former Certificate of Eligibility at the time of Registration at Middlebury.

Financial Aid: Students apply for Financial Aid by submitting a Financial Aid Form (FAF) to the College Scholarship service by 15 March. The FAF is included with general application materials. Students should specify 7767 as the code number for Middlebury College in the appropriate section of the FAF.

Award decisions and information about aid offered will be sent by 15 April 1980 to each student who has completed the application for admission and submitted the FAF by 15 March. Applications received after 15 March will be processed if funds are still available. Students must reapply for Financial Aid each year.

In addition to its own funds, Middlebury College participates in all federal programs. Students applying for financial aid are considered for all programs for which they are eligible.

The amount of Financial Aid awarded is generally a combination of scholarship and work aid assistance. All work aid positions are in the cafeteria-style dining halls, either serving food or clearing tables. Awards are based on the financial need of the student, but the College assumes a minimum of at least $450 in self-help from each aid applicant. Students should also be prepared to apply for loans from their home-state Guaranteed Student Loan Program.

Health Services: A full-time physician, assisted by a registered nurse, holds regular office hours in the infirmary, and is on emergency call at all times. This service is free to all full-time students. When a student’s illness requires continued medical service, the student assumes all financial obligations. Special prescription diets cannot be provided.

Insurance: The College enrolls all full-time students in a plan of medical reimbursement for the expenses arising from an accident. Maximum reimbursement is $1000 for each accident. The plan is broad in scope and covers all accidents occurring while the Language Schools are in session.

Living Accommodations: Students are assigned to rooms, normally double, in the dormitories of their School. All students take their meals in the School dining hall with faculty and staff members. The College does not have space for housing members of a student’s family nor can special diets be provided.

Only under special circumstances will students be granted permission to live off-campus.

Transcripts: One official transcript will be issued without charge on written request to Office of Graduate Records, Old Chapel, Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont 05753. A fee of $2.00 is charged for each additional transcript. No transcript will be issued to students who are financially indebted to the College until satisfactory arrangements have been made with the Comptroller.

Registration: Registration materials will be furnished to all accepted students.

In this event the student will be given written notice of such disbursement made on his behalf out of the proceeds of the refund.

Veterans Administration (VA) Program: See Page 60.

Expenses:

Transportation: In order to assist students in obtaining transatlantic transportation at the most economical rates, Middlebury College will provide information on flights to Europe. Additional information (including the cost of any surface transportation in Europe) will be sent to all students accepted into the Schools.

Housing: Students in the Schools in France, Germany, Italy and Spain make their own arrangements for housing, although Middlebury College will provide assistance in helping students settle in the foreign city. In the case of the School in the Soviet Union, Middlebury College makes all arrangements for travel, room, and board. Costs vary from country to country and according to the kind of accommodation preferred (family, pension, dormitory, apartment), but a budget of approximately $4500 – $5000 should be anticipated to cover the cost of room, board, and personal expenses for nine months.

Financial Aid:

Graduate program: A limited number of National Direct Student Loans and Scholarship grants are awarded to qualified students. Selection of those eligible is based on demonstrated need. Awards will be made in conjunction with those for the required summer session.

Junior program: Financial assistance for the Junior program is available to Middlebury students only. Other juniors are advised to contact the Office of Financial Aid at their home institution.

Insurance: Medical insurance is required. A low cost policy is available through Middlebury College. An application form for this coverage will be included with the August billing. For further details you may write directly to the Office of the Comptroller, Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont 05753.

Transcripts: One official transcript will be issued without charge on written request to Office of Graduate Records, Old Chapel, Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont 05753. A fee of $2.00 is charged for each additional transcript. No transcript will be issued to students who are financially indebted to the College until satisfactory arrangements have been made with the Comptroller.
